

Panel 1: Communicating Strategic Foresight Insights

Speaker: Bernadette Foong

Director, Futures & Strategy Division, Ministry of Trade & Industry

Bernadette Foong is Director of the Futures & Strategy Division (FSD) at the Ministry of Trade & Industry. She oversees strategic and resource planning, strategic foresight and futures thinking to support policy analysis and development at the Ministry. As one of the forerunner futures units, the MTI futures group has been active in sharing learning experiences with the growing futures community within the Singapore public sector. Prior to her current position, she was Deputy Executive Director of the Science and Engineering Research Council of A*STAR, Singapore. In her career at A*STAR she has helped chart the national S&T plans for 2001-2005 and 2006-2010, including coordination of national-level technology scanning and roadmapping leading to the plans and implementation through the funding of research programmes at the universities and A*STAR research institutes.

Bernadette has held positions spanning industry and manpower development, planning and international relations portfolios at the former National Science & Technology Board and the Ministry of Manpower. She is a Physics graduate from Cambridge University and completed the Graduate Management Program at Harvard Business School in 2008.
