

Panel 3: New Security Challenges

Speaker: Tate Nurkin

Director, Security and Military Intelligence Consulting, IHS Jane's

Tate Nurkin is the Director of IHS Jane's Security and Military Intelligence consultancy practice and a member of the IHS Global Services Leadership Team. Mr. Nurkin specializes in understanding and anticipating emerging and future security and operational environments and the challenges, opportunities, and missions implied by these environments. He has 15 years experience designing and executing wargames and scenario building and alternative futures exercises and performing horizon – scanning regional security analyses for private sector companies and defense and intelligence community clients in North America, Southeast Asia and Western Europe. He served as a member of the Steering Committee of the recently completed IHS Global Scenarios Initiative and is a frequent speaker on forces shaping future military and security environments.

Prior to joining IHS Jane's, Mr. Nurkin worked for Booz Allen Hamilton's Modeling, Simulation, Wargaming and Analysis team; the Strategic Assessment Center of Science Applications International Corporation; and Joint Management Services, a private defense consulting firm in Atlanta, GA. He holds a dual bachelors degree in History and Political Science from Duke University and a Masters of Science degree in International Affairs from the Sam Nunn School of International Affairs at the Georgia Institute of Technology.