

Panel 3: Emerging Issues For Policymaking

Speaker: Pan Xiaoli

Fellow & Forum Director, ChunQiu Institute 春秋研究院

Xiaoli is a research fellow at ChunQiu Institute, a private foundation in China, dedicated to studying and promoting discussions on issues relating to China's political economic structure and the relations between a changing China and world affairs. Xiaoli is also responsible for directing forums and intellectual events at ChunQiu, generating a wide range of followers through the Institute's monthly magazine "Social Outlook" and a news and current affairs commentary website "guancha.cn".

Xiaoli has also been a television broadcaster over the past decade, based with Shanghai Media Group. She has been the lead bilingual anchor and reporter responsible for the special coverage of major events including the London bombing, Sichuan earthquake, China's manned space missions, the Beijing Olympics, US election and the Shanghai World EXPO.

Ms. Pan's academic background is in international relations, having graduated from SOAS University of London and subsequently attending as fellows at McGill University and Peking University.

pan.xiaoli@gmail.com